S.W.O.T Analysis Cnt

Strength

Our strength is derived from the rich experience the directors have which continuously been imparted to the staff hence enabling the company to offer seamless service to the

Weakness

Our Loading capacity need to grow in tandem with the growth in the market demand for moving the product in the region.

S.W.O.T Analysis

Strength

The growing demand of petroleum products in the hinterland countries and movement of other products within the country offers a great opportunity for investing in transport services. This has come about due to a relative political stability experienced in the Grate Lake Countries that has allowed meaning full economic growth leading to increased demand of fuel and other domestic products.

Threats

Political instability in the region may be a key threatening factor for movement of transit shipments to some of the Great Lake Countries. The depressed transport rates are also a concern considering the increasing costs of transportation

Founder & Managing Director Future prospects

Petroleum products are naturally in high demand. Competition in Dar-es-Salaam is from the other players in the business going out to obtain long term contract for sustainability.

Transport prices depend on the market but cutting edge service will be a factor to settle for premium rates.

Companies doing both Hospitality and transportation are better placed to combine their synergy and complement on the rates
